“ Dear Mom,
we are now in the month of October, my Birthday month and i cant seem to get excited anymore knowing i don't have you around to share my memories with. you always made sure I had such amazing birthday's. i can never take you enough for the endless love you gave me. as we near towards the end of the year i start to relapse not having you. the Holiday's will never be the same. This time of year was always your fav and its so hard to celebrate not having you. i know its been a while writing on this, but always know i don't a day without thinking about you. I'm sitting at my desk at work looking up at you constantly asking myself WHY? Mommi I hope your doing well & Hope we meet again soon.

“ Dear Mommi, this is for you! Your the Top of our Pyramid as both your kids are the bottom corners. No matter where you are and where you go we will always be connected. #WeMissYouSoMuch 🦋 (I'm surrounded by your Embrace) xo

“ Mom, I remember as a kid growing up listening to Aerosmith as Steven Tyler was your True Love you'd tell us kids. I don't go a day without listening to a song making me remember all the great car rides we had together blasting his music singing from our hearts. Every day I light my patchouli incense. Whenever I do that I know your close by keeping me protected. I just wish I could hold you and have you kiss my head. Mommi I am so broken I Miss you. Please remember how much you meant to WORLD TO ME. You are my HERO. Thank you for everything. 🦋

Mario Palie "Son" - July 24, 2019 at 07:48 AM

“ This was my sweet 16. You surprised me and put it all together and I was so happy I cried. You always made sure us kids had happy memories. Thank you for being the best mom, you always wanted what was best for us. This night for me was one to remember, you motivated me to sing in front of everyone (I always thought I sounded bad) mom thought otherwise and would always tell me she loves when I sing and loves my voice. I am glad I got to sing to you a little bit in your last days everyday gets harder and harder. I love you forever and ever 🦋

“ I have come to write something many times and I just can't I stop and close this page out and cry because I just can't grasp the thought of you being gone, are last conversation you were telling me that you had to cut your trip short here and that you were leaving and you promised you would come see us for Christmas I was looking forward to that because it's been so long since I seen you. I ask myself why, why did this happen to you? You were such an amazing person and I'm lost now because you were always there for me, like a second mother one that I could actually speak to and you would understand me and not judge me, I miss you and this hurts me everyday but I know your not hurting anymore and your not alone and your looking down on us and watching over us. I love you until we see each other again mom

“ Could I cry any more tears? Yes...I just did reading all these beautiful posts left by all these breaking hearts who will miss this one amazingly strong warrior princess Thank you to all who shared such personal stories -they help those of us that did not have as much time to build such wonderful "scrapbooks"...I can picture her in so many of those moments drinking and singing and cooking...smiling and helping her friends in need. She was a nuturer, a caretaker, a momma bear you did not want to f#!$% with when it came to those she loved!!

“ What can I say chica? We started off really rough and I would have said no way in hell we would end up being sistas. But God had a different plan for us, didn't He? Yes- He sure did...In only 2 short years we grew some deep roots. I don't have many memories but that's ok...as I look back at our time together I realize what we shared where priceless daily moments. We would listen to each other's day we would bitch and complain and then laugh and cry we would spend "now moments" we would give each other the time and space and permission to think, feel and react however we saw fit. We were just 2 women on a path that God put into motion for greater things to come. That's you and me chica...I came when you called... You made time when I needed to just sit and chill...you always understood me. We did not listen to the same music...we did not have the same style of dress... we might even be described as polar opposites. I think that's what we both loved about each other the most though. I don't know who you were, or where you came from or much at all about your past. So now that I lost my "now moments" I feel kinda empty inside. I find myself wishing I had more memories to reflect on...and it feels so surreal. Like its just a dream and that you are just up north visiting family and soon you will be home so we can have more "now moments" and share our day with each other. It doesn't feel real yet and I just have so much to get you caught up on... But I do feel so very blessed because you allowed me to share your last "now moment" and that was such a precious gift you gave me Sunday afternoon. I'm sorry I fell asleep during it though, but you know my narcolepsy would always get the best of me when I was emotional. I forgive you for waiting until I left...I should have known you'd be stubborn til the very end I will always love you chica you came into my world like a "crazy beeotch", but you became my "warrior princess" I will never forget you. Rest in Comfort and Peace my Dear Friend

“ Mom I remember this day like it was yesterday. You where so surprised I could pick you up and the look on your face was priceless. We loved going to the beach together making summer memories. As I’m off to the beach today I can’t get you out my head and I know when I hear the waves crashing onto the shore your close by. The things I would do just to have you for more time. MOMMI I love you so much. I hope your pain free now and flying high watching over me. I Miss You. 🦋

“ Christmas this past year, 2018. Christmas was you’re favorite and I don’t want to spend it without you I remember us drinking and dancing in Mario’s living room and him getting pissed because you spilt wine on his rug because you had a bit too much but oh man I’m going to miss this smile and joy you always had no matter the pain you were in. Thank you for creating such great memories with us. As I get older, the more I start to see myself looking like you. I love you da mostest 🦋

Sophia Kerr - July 18, 2019 at 09:01 PM

“ I don't know where to begin. I can't. There's just so many memories & so many years. Everytime I start to write on here I just start crying hysterically then stop. I feel like it still isn't setting in sometimes. Like you've always pulled through. I know you're with your dad & Joe & so many amazing angels but it's just not fair. I know that you were a young soul & always lived your life to the fullest but it wasn't over. I met you at work when I was 22 & were friends ever since. Ups & downs...fights whatever. We always found our way back to our stubborn selves. I am so glad we reconnected recently. My heart will always hurt that I didn't get to see you though. Hug you & have your sticky lip gloss all over my face lol. We've gotten each other through so much & shed so many tears on one another. Always found ways to get each other through & laugh. You got me through one of my worst break ups ever. Literally up off the floor. I would have never made it without you. You set up my email, Myspace lol, FB. Got me back in touch with the world after not being allowed to for a while. You taught me to make my 1st gravy, eggplant parm, chicken cacciatore & we would always do it together. With wine of course & Lil Wayne blasting . You made me the best hangover cheeseburgers ever lol. We had that Fab CD & our 2 favorite songs we would blast & sing on our way out anywhere in the orange truck. Play pool & cause trouble wherever we would go lol. I could write books on our memories & laughs. I love you so much Dedith. Queenie. Mrs Carter. I have my purple butterfly tatted for you & will be getting a crown for the bravest, strongest most amazing queen I've known. My 2nd mom, best friend, partner in crime, Italian chef, human diary & partner in crime. I love you so much & will forever be your princess/blossum. No more pain. You hug Joe for me every single day & watch over us all. Especially your beautiful children you raised so well! I know you'll come see me when we're ready & I'll look for signs. I hope heaven knows what an angel they've truly gained. Until we meet again 🦋

“ It is so difficult to share right now my heart is so broken by the loss of Denise. Our families spent our whole childhood doing everything with the Giovo's. We told everyone we were cousins even though we were just best friends. Though our lives went down separate paths over the years my beautiful memories of the great times we had will never be forgotten. No matter how Denise's life took twists and turns I was always in her corner. Love you now and forever my funny sweet friend

“ Mom, you've always taught me to be unapologetic and I can't thank you enough for that. It hurts me seeing the pain people have put you through your life, but I know that just made you that much stronger. You've always been a fighter and a warrior. Your always the light in every room you step into and it saddens me I am going to miss the big smile and bigger personality. You are literally the BEST mother ever. You always put your kids first which shows a lot in a person. You always made sure Sophia and myself where taken care of. I wish this was not real I wish I could have you back I wish I could hold you. ILYSM, I know your in a better place not in pain, but it hurts saying goodbye. 😞🦋

“ I remember when I was returning to Brazil and I received your call to prevent me from taking Thiago with me because Mario would not take it, that night before the trip I hated you even without knowing you. You promised to take care of him as your own son, but you did beyond your promise. You took care and loved Thiago. About 3 Years later we became best friends and you said: See our children are still together until today. I said it's true thank you very much for everything ou have done to let that happen!

I love and miss you DD 🦋

“ So many memories. Fun nights out, working together, living so close to each other. I hope her voice never fades from my head singing to me tulip, tulip. I am blessed she seen my oldest grow up and her be his mema. She was like another mother to me. Funny story when we worked together she would get a $40 bank as a waitress (that she would pay back at the end or when she had enough cash to give back) so many nights would end with her holding up like 3 dollars saying UGHHH TULIP I DRANK IT AHHA and we would laugh. GOD HOW I AM GOING TO MISS THIS WOMAN. she was the youngest soul i will ever meet in life i know this. I will cherish all the time you were here with us. You were such a strong amazing woman.
