“ I miss you babe. I miss sending each other funny jokes. I miss that ringtone that let me know it was you calling. I miss that look on your face with the arched eye brow that meant, "Seriously?". I miss you calling me sis. I miss keeping you up to date with night sky viewings. I miss telling you that you had to listen to me because I was older, by 6 month. I miss being your confidant and trying to guide you. I miss calling you Egghead.

*I remember us playing with the pool table as if it were a big slide when we were about 7-8 years old . I remember when you were teaching me to skate board in our teens. I remember when you got into photography and driving mom crazy. I remember covering for you so mom wouldn't find out you smoked. I remember when you borrowed my Chicago Hits LP and lost it. I remember your little music band after high school. I remember visiting your little apartment in Old San Juan. I remember the grin on your face when my son met you and said " Hi Uncle Egghead", and the look you gave me when my grand daughter did the same.
I will always remember you.*

“ Luis always had a funny story about Angelo. He would come home and tell me how he had to call Angelo to come and fix the alarm system and would be there forever talking. That was just who he was - sociable and funny. Reminded us so much of Lulo. My last memory was when he came for a holiday dinner with you- think it was Thanksgiving. He was quiet and I remember some drama going down with family. When everyone had left I asked him if he had a good time? He laughed and said “yeah I felt like I was with my own family with all of the yelling and arguing”. 🥰 I will miss him!!

“ Angelo Llego a mi vida cuando yo tenia 16 años, El y su Familia me abrieron las puertas de su casa y de su corazón. Recuerdo Todos los días que compartí con ellos , siempre me trato como otra de sus Hijas, recuerdo que hasta me castigo alguna vez por llegar tarde ala casa y hasta curfew me puso. Fui muy afortunada en tenerlo esos años de mi vida siempre le estaré agradecida por su amor incondicional. U be in my heart always.
