“Dad “Joe” entered my life when I was about 2 years old. Shortly after he became the father figure I needed. We would shrimp, fish, play high Jai Alai, bet on the dogs at the track, pick up a coke and drove around the country roads listening to country music. I lived with him for a period of time. My ex husband asked permission from him to marry me, as well as my current husband because they knew if he didn't approve I wasn't getting married. He always told me I will always be 12 years old to him. Our favorite movie was Forrest Gump. He was there when my son was born we spent every holiday together as a family. He showed me what it was like for a man to be a father. He would drop anything to help anyone at any time. His love for my mom was so strong even though they might have drove each other nuts at times but that's pretty normal. He treated all my moms kids like his own. I will be forever grateful for being so lucky to have him in my life. I love you and hope you are in heaven with all your loved ones watching over all of us.

“Billy was a childhood friend I will never forget. He was so much fun yo be around, as was the whole Woolwine family. This is such a loss.
