“ Bryan and I have been friends virtually since birth. His grandmother would watch me when I was an infant through kindergarten so were like brothers growing up. We shared the same bus stop on the corner of Veronica Av and Cedar Av in New Windsor all through junior high and high school. When I sliced off the tip of my finger in 7th grade, just weeks after starting to play bass, he and his mom rushed me to the hospital. If it hadn't been for their quick action, I would have never have been able to play.

He was an awesome musician playing both clarinet and saxophone in all of the school bands, orchestras and stage bands and we marched together for many summers in the Cronomer Valley Fire Department marching band. This was a photo of us was at our 31st high school reunion in 2015. Bryan drove all the way from Florida to Newburgh, NY to see Nightwing perform again and reconnect with his classmates. We tried but couldn't get him to pick up the sax and join us. I saw him earlier that year as well when I had a conference in Orlando. He never once let on that he was so seriously ill.

I'm sure Bryan has already found Mr. Grassel and they are planning a great concert. Rest in peace my friend. I'm glad we were able to reconnect in person. Your life made a difference for many.
