“ Wita, it will always make me smile when I think about you pronouncing my name as "Chong" instead of Sean. I'll miss our walks to the park, sitting on the balcony together, you laughing at something on channel 41 or 47, hearing you shuffle along, but most of all your wonderful cooking. You're the reason one of the few things I can understand and ask for in Spanish is food. I love you Wita & I hope you're in a better place.

Thanks for sharing Sean. Thanks for being with us at the very end as she took her last breathe and we said goodbye. You'll always have a special place in my heart for being there for her and us as a family. She always talked about her grandson Chong. Still makes me laugh too.....and now cry. Thanks for looking out for her when she was in NY and for being by my side before during and after. Even if I did have to kidnap you across State lines. 😊 Will always love you for that and more my dear nephew. Titi Doris
