“ R.I.P. to one of the dearest and most treasured souls that I was Blessed with in my lifetime. Thank you Joe for always being such a dear friend and one of the biggest support systems in my life!!!! You didn't have me at hello 30+ years ago because of your remarks of how big a pregnant woman could be (our inside joke), but we quickly became the best of friends and I cherish every memory that we were blessed to share. I look forward to our rejoicing in Heaven together again someday. I LOVE YOU JOE!!! I know that you know!!! You were the best friend and co-worker that a girl could ever hope for and there are not enough tears to be shed for my love for you!! R.I.P. my love and prayers for Carl and your family during these most difficult of days.

“ It's almost Thanksgiving, and it makes me think back to working with Joe at Darland Bakery. He'd run dough through the pie press machine which would make the pie shells, then I would bake all the pies. Around 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning on Thanksgiving Day, after working a 20-hour shift, Joe and I would compare his pie-shells count against my cooked-pies count, and our final #'s always matched. No matter how long the shift, or how hard the work, Joe always kept a careful count to make sure all our customers received all the pies they had ordered for their Thanksgiving dinners. Joe was very easygoing, and when not at the Bakery, he loved working in his garden. And he loved his cats. And he loved his wonderful, exotic fish collection. And he loved all his friends and never knew a stranger. And, most of all, he loved Carl. Rest in peace, Joe. –Bill Gay (and Mary)
