“ Over 37 years of good memories . Ah and so many road trips on both the west and later the east coast. Scotty may have been born in Orlando but his heart was definitely in San Francisco and perhaps that's the reason my fondest memories date back to those times when I visited you guys in San Francisco. Christopher, Christina remember that trip to LA and meeting Sydney Poitier and ET in Disneyland and Richard what about that time in Lake Tahoe? Scotty took me for my first taste of sushi and burrito and showed off "his"city and its beauty and buildings that he worked on or admired. I see his smile even now and I see the undying love and admiration he had for you Evarist. You were his jewel and you stood by him throughout and brought him into our Trini family , our neighborhood where there was an outpouring of love for another son.I know you are all sad now and that the last three years as Scotty illness progressed were particularly difficult but there are so many beautiful memories , and there was so much love and laughter and that is what you all must hold on to now for they will comfort you and bring smiles to your faces. Our love thoughts and prayers go out to you all now. May God give you all strength and comfort and may He welcome Scotty into His kingdom. Rest in peace Scotty.We will miss you. All our love

“ Dad, I don't have to words now but one day I will. Just know you did your best with everything. Know that I love you. I'll always remember the lessons, the never giving up on me and the long conversation that weren't meant to be a speech, we didn't always see eye to eye but I loved you at the end of the day you will always be my dad. I miss you. I'll miss you everyday. Things are rough right now and I don't know if I can bounce back but I do know you'd tell me to never give up.

“ We had good times together. He loved to knock about in Trinidad . He loved a cold Carib, he definitely supported our local. What I admired most was his enthusiasm for architecture. He never grew tired of it. He was passionate about it. He also always had sound advice to give. You are in a better place now. Take care !
