“Patricia Rupert was my first boyfriend Doug Rupert’s mother, she was very nice to me and later became one of my good friends. She had such a beautiful and classy style, I remember one Christmas we went to her home and she gave me a very beautiful jade turtle necklace, which I still have today. We kept in contact through the Internet and by phone over the years, and she told me stories of when she was young and things that she had done, we would laugh and laugh always a great time we had. And when I would come to town I would always go and visit her she loved my kids and would get very excited to see us. I miss her dearly and all her stories, and kindness.

I was good friends with Doug, until we moved away when I was 9, we lost touch, his mom was always really nice.
