

Richard Ernest Bell

September 16, 1969 - June 20, 2019

Richard Ernest Bell, 49, of Orlando, Florida passed away Thursday, June 20, 2019. He was born on September 16, 1969 in Boston, Massachusetts.

Richard is survived by his daughter, Samantha Marie Bell; mother, Deborah Mason (husband, Paul Mason); sister, Danielle Kelly; and other extended family and friends.

The celebration of life will be Saturday, July 13, 2019 at 2pm to whenever at Three Points Bowling Alley. Most people know where it is but for those who don't. 7470 Hoffner Avenue, Orlando, FL 32822. Everyone is asked to wear a Patriots shirt, or Patriots colors along with any other Patriots attire for the celebration of life.

From Samantha:

Everyone that knew my dad and well honestly people that didn't even know my dad, knew he was such a big hearted, stubborn, loving, caring, give the shirt off his back to you kind of man. And boy oh boy did that man know how to party. Not only did he know how to do that but he sure knew how to keep a smile on your face with his big, perfect smile, and with those perfect teeth, and those jokes of his. His laugh and smile were contagious, it was nearly impossible for you not to laugh and smile with him. I'm at a loss for losing the man of my life and there's so much to say about him so I would really appreciate and love if memories, good times and just good words were written about my dad for me and everyone else to be able to read and look at when times get tough. #cheerstoyouinheavendaddy

“ Samantha honey, sending you healing, prayers, and light. Your father's saying to me when i use to take a trip to Mass. Because he was from there also," You know the rules, when you are there, you have to bring enough "Chinese food" for me too! He knew and i knew Boston has the best Chinese food hands down.

“ I like real people, people that tell you how it is instead of being fake or putting up a phony facade. When Rich and I finally had our first real conversation we were sitting at the poker table. After we had been talking for awhile he said, "Well this is weird". I asked what was weird and he said "You are way different than when we first met". He then reminded me of our first encounter. It was at a monthly poker tournament at the card room and he had won a seat into the tournament. Since I work for the poker league it was my job to sit with my computer and as people walked up who had won seats I would hand them their chips to buy into the tournament. I always had multiple people talking to me at one time asking numerous questions so it was usually hectic. He walked up and he told me he had won a seat. I said "Name?", barely looking up from my computer. He gave me his name and I handed him the chips and he asked what he needed to do since it was his first time there. I pointed to the line and told him "You buy in to the tournament there", again not really looking up from my computer. Once he got done telling the story he then says without skipping a beat at the poker table in front of everyone "I thought you were the biggest bitch ever!" The players mouths all dropped open like they couldn't believe he said that to me and they were waiting to see how I would react. I looked at him and just about fell out of my chair and laughed and laughed and couldn't stop. I could not believe this guy I just met had the balls to tell me that and I thought it was the coolest thing ever! He then said, "I bet you don't even remember any of that". I said, "Not really but it definitely sounds like me!" Then we both could not stop laughing. One of the best first encounters of my life ever and unforgettable. ❤️❤️❤️

“ Uncle Richie was the sweetest. When he lived with us up north we played crazy 8s and trivia almost every night. I'll never forget how mad he used to get when I got all the 2s. I'll never forget how competitive he was in trivia. I'll never forget when he accidentally spilled water on an art peice I was working on and made up for it by drawing me a beautiful tree and birds nest. I have too many memories to share here, and I'll cherish every last one .
