“ Steve was my brother who i loved dearly.
We got very close these last few months as We talked everyday on the ipad facetime so we could see each other.
It didnt matter if it was 10 at night or 4 in the morning, i just cherished every moment we had.
Im still waiting for the ring of the ipad at times wishing i could see and talk to him one last time.
As He said though, "it is what it is", and "Dont't cry baby sis".
I will miss you everyday.
I love you. Xoxo

“ I'm not sure if you read the obituaries. But as the days go by I have began to realize the full scope of the lives you touched in your relatively short time on earth. You are an amazing man and the best father a man could have been blessed with. I remember people telling me that " I was just like you" when I was young and wanted to stand as my own man. And now I strive to be half the man you were. You were always my rock, when I think of strength and determination I will always see your face. You carried me literally and figuratively for most of my adolescence and now I will carry you with me to my last breath. I love you more then words can express, and I will keep my faith in the lessons you taught me. Rest in heaven poopers, you've earned your place amongst the Angels.
