“ This is Victoria “Vicky” Coto, your cousin. When we were little over by our grandparents’ house, they called me Vitin and they called you Bicky. I was always confused about that. You were a nice sweet cousin. I’ll never forget that summer you came to my house to build a closet in one of my rooms at a very discounted price. It was a very hot summer, and the fact that my house has a concrete roof and is a very old house did not help. You would make me buy you Chinese Food from LaReine. Then when you completed the closet, you vowed never to come back to build anything in an old house again! Lol. May you rest in eternal peace, mi primo Bicky. Family, I’m keeping you in my prayers. God is the God of the brokenhearted. I pray for strength and peace that surpasses all understanding at this your most difficult moment. God bless.

“ Victor was a very friendly, happy lovable man. He always came into our dispatch office with a funny joke or tale to share with us. Always speaking of his Mama, and beautiful family...May he rest now in the arms of our Lord. See you again in heaven, Victor.
