“ Love you forever Papi. Nothing can describe the emptiness and pain I feel inside from losing you in my arms. I dedicated my heart and soul to you and I was by your side faithfully to the very end. I tried to be the best son a father could have. I wanted to make you proud of me and to make you feel loved, safe, cared for, and never alone or abandoned. Most of all I wanted to demonstrate my gratitude and unconditional love for all you have done for me as a selfless father. I wanted to show you that I owed you my life and I would drop everything in that life to be there for you when you needed it most. I researched countless nights and tried everything in my power to save you regardless of the impossible odds in our broken medical system and never gave up hope. I am so sorry I couldn't heal you. A piece of me died with you and I will never be the same after this experience. Why does life have to be like this? You will never be forgotten and forever sorely missed.
